

Let Us Help You Learn Your Family's Story

Outdated Address? Mail returns?

Separated by History?

In 1919, Usher Kolman with his wife Chana and their little daughter Mania fled Odessa and settled in Krzemieniec, Poland. Life was tough. According to a 1929 document issued by the Mayor's Office, they were barely surviving on whatever Usher was able to make selling dairy products at this market.

A Canadian Sandomirski with her Ukrainian cousin Gregory Sandomirski and his daughter at the synagogue in Dnipro, Ukraine; 80+ years of family separation. Read the story inside

Andrew Lisko of Columbus, OH, believed that none of his family in Ukraine had survived the Soviet Stalinist regime. Over 50 years later, he was proven wrong. Read the story inside

Living Family

And Take You to Your Ancestral Places

Living Family

Give Us a Call or Drop Us a Line

Living Family

Genealogy & Historical Family Research

- archival records search
- tracing family's descent
- transcription/translation of records/documents
- copying archival records/documents
- photographing historical sites
- historical and cultural tours
- visits to places of religious/spiritual significance
- tours of ancestral places

All Over Eastern Europe

- Ukraine
- Poland
- Belarus
- Romania
- Russia
- Lithuania
- Slovakia
- Czech Republic
- Hungary

Oleksandr Denysenko

38 Dragomanova St., Suite 9
Lviv, UKRAINE 79005

E-mail: tuagtuag@gmail.com
Mobile: +38 050 671 0725
Skype: alexalex9750

Nearly a century later, Mania's son Ed visited Krzemieniec (now Kremenets, Ukraine) and retraced the steps of his mother and the ancestors he had only heard about. The former market is now a WWII memorial park. We even located the building where the family was renting an apartment in 1929, just a few blocks away.